EXHIBIT 3

DECLARATION OF ALVIN SCHMIDT IV

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I hereby declare as follows:

1. My name is Alvin Schmidt IV. I was asked to review the declaration submitted by Zainab N. Ahmad to the Southern District of New York on March 6, 2023, as well as the two FD-302 forms that were attached as exhibits to her declaration.

Background and Qualifications

- 2. I am qualified to provide an assessment regarding the two FD-302 forms in question because of my career in the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI). Following my service in the U.S. Marine Corps (USMC), I entered the FBI in July 1998, and retired from FBI in January 2022. Because I was mobilized back into the USMC from 2002 to 2006, during which time I was deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan, my total tenure working as an FBI agent was approximately 19 years.
- 3. During my FBI career, I was involved in investigations concerning organized crime, violent crime, and international terrorism, and I led a multi-state investigation involving over 20 subjects, which included partnerships with federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies. From my FBI experience, I am familiar with advanced investigation techniques. In terms of experience directly relevant to the subject matter of this Declaration, I wrote hundreds of FD-302 forms and reviewed thousands more.

Explanation of Analysis and Conclusion

- 4. As part of my analysis, I reviewed the Memorandum of Law in Support of the Motion for Sanctions filed by Plaintiffs on February 23, 2023 (ECF No. 163), the Richard Gates Declaration ("Gates Declaration") that was attached to the Plaintiffs February 23, 2023 Motion (ECF No. 165-2), the Memorandum of Law in Opposition to the Motion for Sanctions filed by Gibson Dunn on March 6, 2023 (ECF No. 168), Ms. Ahmad's declaration and its attached FD-302 forms (ECF No. 169), which were also filed on March 6, 2023 as an attachment to Gibson Dunn's filing, and the other 82 FD-302 forms released in the same tranche as the two FD-302 forms at issue by the Department of Justice pursuant to FOIA requests in March 2020 ("March 2020 FOIA response"). <sup>1</sup>
- 5. For reference purposes, I will be referring to the first attachment to Ms. Ahmad's declaration, the 5-page FD-302 form documenting an interview of Richard William Gates III on March 18, 2018 that is labeled Exhibit A, as the "2456" memo. And I will be referring to the second attachment, labeled as Exhibit B, which is a one-page FD-302 with only paragraph of mostly redacted text in its body, as the "2470" memo.

- 6. My understanding from reading the Gates Declaration is that his written testimony is that there were two interviews conducted sequentially on Sunday, March 18, 2018, with the first involving Office of Special Counsel ("OSC") prosecutor Greg Andres and the second involving OSC prosecutors Andrew Weissmann and Ms. Ahmad for the entirety of the latter session. I further understand that Mr. Gates' written testimony is that he believes that "much of" the contents of both of these interviews were memorialized in the "2456" memo, and further, that there was no 87-minute interview-within-an-interview conducted by Ms. Ahmad that was "documented in a separate 302," as stated on page 4 of the "2456" memo.
- 7. For the reasons detailed below, it is my opinion, based on nearly two decades of experience as an FBI agent that the "2470" memo could not be the memorialization of an interview of Mr. Gates (or anyone else) conducted in compliance with FBI procedures, and the contents of the "2470" FD-302 form indicate that it was recording a non-interview investigative activity that occurred on April 17, 2018, one month after the March 18, 2018 interview of Mr. Gates.

FD-302 Forms Serve Multiple Purposes

- 8. The FD-302 form is the FBI report format used to memorialize interviews conducted by or involving the FBI. FD-302 forms can also be used for other purposes, however, such as documenting observations of an FBI agent, providing explanations regarding the logging of evidence into a given case file, or documenting the execution of a search or arrest warrant.
- 9. All FD-302 forms, whether used to memorialize interviews or for other investigative purposes, contain certain information, including the following: (1) the file number(s) associated with the pertinent case file(s), (2) the name of the FBI agent(s) who can attest to the truthfulness of the information included in the document, (3) a listing of persons involved in the investigative action, and (4) the dates relating to the investigative activity performed, the drafting of the FD-302 form, and its entry into Sentinel, the FBI's case management system.

Date on "2470" Memo Indicates Investigative Activity Occurred on April 17, 2018

- 10. The FD-302 template records three different dates, all on the first page: (1) "Date of entry," in the top right-hand side, just above the preamble, (2) "Date drafted," in the bottom, right-hand corner, and (3) "Investigated on," in the bottom left-hand corner, which is the date of the investigative activity being memorialized or documented in the given FD-302 form.
- 11. Based on my experience, the meaning of each date field on an FD-302 form, including "Investigated on," would be common knowledge and readily understood by federal prosecutors.

- 12. As an example, for the FD-302 of Mr. Gates' interview on March 20, 2018 (Exhibit B), it was entered into the Sentinel case management system ("Sentinel") on April 9, 2018 ("Date of entry"), the first draft of the FD-302 (typically based primarily on the notes taken during the interview) was typed up on March 20, 2018 ("Date drafted"), and the date of the interview memorialized by the form was conducted on March 20, 2018 ("Investigation on").
- 13. The contents of the "2470" FD-302 form show that it was entered into the Sentinel system on April 23, 2018 ("Date of entry"), the first draft of the information was typed up on April 17, 2018 ("Date drafted"), and the investigative activity being documented by the form occurred on April 17, 2018 ("Investigated on").
- 14. Thus, despite the one unredacted sentence in the body of the "2470" FD-302 form referencing an interview with Mr. Gates on "March 18, 2018," the date information contained in the "2470" memo indicates that this form is actually documenting an activity that occurred on a date almost one month after March 18, 2018.

Several Factors Indicate the "2470" Memo Does Not Document an Interview

- 15. Setting aside the date information, the "2470" FD-302 form on its face is not the memorialization of an interview at all, regardless of date, which I will explain below.
- 16. There are three factors indicating that the "2470" memo is not a memorialization of an interview: (1) the body of the memo is simply too short for it be an "interview 302" of an 87-minute interview, (2) the preamble does not contain key information that is found in the other 82 FD-302 forms from the March 2020 FOIA release, and (3) the one sentence of the paragraph that is not redacted actually indicates that the "2470" FD-302 is discussing or referencing an FD-302 form that memorialized the March 18, 2018 interview, as opposed to documenting the contents of some "separate" interview conducted on March 18, 2018.
- 17. In the "2470" memo, the entire contents of the body are all within one paragraph. An "interview 302" for a discussion of any meaningful length or detail would require multiple paragraphs. As discussed in more detail below, this is because standard procedure is that the opening paragraph of an FD-302 form memorializing an interview, known as the "preamble," provides necessary and relevant context regarding the others involved in the meeting, among other things.
- 18. The body of the "2470" memo is evidently only one paragraph because there is only one redaction box. If you look at the other FD-302 forms with significant redactions in the March 2020 FOIA response, it appears that each redacted paragraph receives its own redaction box. But even if the "2470" memo had another paragraph in addition to a preamble, it is highly unlikely that the memorialization of an 87-minute interview could be captured within a single paragraph.

Information Absent from Preamble of "2470" Memo

- 19. When an FD-302 form is used to memorialize an interview or a proffer session, there are certain common elements that are expected to be included in the preamble, such as the participants and the location. Generally, the participants in an FBI interview fall into one of three broad categories: (1) the person interviewed, (2) the person(s) conducting interview, and (3) other person(s) present, such as defense counsel or a translator/interpreter.
- 20. For example, I reviewed the other 82 FD-302 forms released by the Department of Justice pursuant to FOIA requests in March 2020 ("March 2020 FOIA response") in the same tranche that included the two FD-302 forms that Gibson Dunn submitted as exhibits to the declaration of Zainab Ahmad.
- 21. All of the other 82 FD-302 forms in the March 2020 FOIA response were used to memorialize interviews.
- 22. Other than five "interview 302s" (which were among the sessions where no OSC prosecutor evidently participated), the preamble in those other FD-302 forms in the March 2020 FOIA response identified the name of the person being interviewed, as well as the names of the FBI personnel (with the relevant title followed by a redacted name), as well as any OSC prosecutors or other government personnel who also participated.
- 23. In the majority of those other 82 "interview 302s," counsel for the interviewee was referenced, mostly identified by title and name (which was sometimes redacted) and in several instances, noted as not being present. In most, but not all, of the FD-302 forms in the March 2020 FOIA response, the location of the interview was also disclosed in the preamble.
- 24. In the five FD-302 forms mentioned above that did not identify the government officials participating in the interview in the opening paragraph, the location of the interview (or noting for one that it was conducted virtually over Microsoft Lync) was documented in the preamble in each of those five forms. In these cases, the names of the FBI agents would still be easily ascertainable in the unredacted version of these five FD-302 forms, however, because the name(s) of the interviewing agent(s) would be listed in the "by" block at the bottom of the first page.
- 25. One of the reasons that it is standard procedure to identify all interview participants in the preamble who are not listed in the "by" block at the bottom of the first page is that those identities are significant for evidentiary purposes. For example, when there is discovery production for prosecutions that proceed to trial, the preamble of the FD-302 forms allow discovery recipients to know who witnessed any given interview besides the investigative agents listed in the "by" block.
- 26. In the "2470" FD-302, the unredacted portion of the preamble does not identify Ms. Ahmad or any other government official. In every FD-302 form contained in the March 2020 FOIA response that documented an interview in which a prosecutor was involved,

- the title and name of each prosecutor is listed without redaction. Additionally, the preamble of the "2470" FD-302 form does not reference the presence of Mr. Gates' attorney.
- 27. Thus, based on the pattern of redactions from the March 2020 FOIA response and my own experience and background from nearly two decades at the FBI, I would have expected Ms. Ahmad's title and name to appear in the unredacted portion of the preamble if the "2470" FD-302 form was, as Ms. Ahmad stated in her March 6, 2023 declaration, the memorialization of an interview that she participated in. But neither Ms. Ahmad's title nor her name appears in the unredacted portion of the "2470" memo, which is another indication that it was not an "interview 302."
- 28. If the "2470" FD-302 form was actually the memorialization of an interview, I also would have expected a location to be mentioned in the unredacted portion of the preamble, even if the specific address was redacted or perhaps not listed. But the fact that there is no mention of a location in the unredacted portion of the preamble is yet another indication that the "2470" FD-302 form is not the memorialization of an interview.

Reference to Serial Number in "2470"

- 29. The last factor indicating that the "2470" FD-302 form was not used to document an interview is the reference in the one unredacted sentence to "Serial 445 of captioned investigation."
- 30. While it is impossible to know what exactly is discussed in the redacted portion of the "2470" FD-302 form, the mention of "Serial 445" suggests that this form was created to document an investigative activity on April 17, 2018 that related to an interview of Mr. Gates one month earlier, on March 18, 2018.
- 31. As an example, it could be that this "2470" memo documented a request or comment from one of the prosecutors shared with the FBI agent in the "by" block in the bottom of the page, or it could be that the FD-302 form that memorialized the March 18, 2018 interview of Mr. Gates was added to or removed from a given case file. But as already noted, it is impossible to know what investigative activity was documented without viewing the contents of the redaction block, other than that the "2470" memo was not the memorialization of an interview conducted in compliance with FBI procedures.
- 32. Although this is technical, it is potentially significant that the unredacted sentence in the "2470" FD-302 form states that the March 18, 2018 interview of Mr. Gates already had a Serial Number. A piece of evidence is automatically assigned an FBI Serial Number after it is entered into Sentinel, and that Serial Number is its identifier within a given case file.
- 33. This is potentially important because the 5-page "2456" FD-302 form that documented Mr. Gates' March 18, 2018 interview could not have been assigned a Serial Number at

- the time the "2470" FD-302 form was completed, since the "2456" form was entered into Sentinel on April 25, 2018, which is two days after the "2470" form had already been entered, on April 23, 2018. (The "Date of entry" is automatically populated by Sentinel when an FD-302 form is entered into the system.)
- 34. It is possible that that the FBI agent who authored the "2470" form essentially guessed what Serial Number would be assigned to the "2456" form (since Serial Numbers are sequentially assigned in increasing chronological order), but in my experience, this would be highly unlikely and not considered acceptable practice by any FBI agent.
- 35. Once an FD-302 form is entered into Sentinel, its contents cannot be altered or edited in any way. The only changes that can be made would be to add the form to a new case file (or files), to remove it from a given case file, or potentially to delete it from Sentinel entirely. Either of the latter two actions require approval from the appropriate personnel at FBI Headquarters in Washington, D.C., which would mean that a record would exist of any such actions having been performed. (I have personally never seen an FD-302 form deleted entirely from Sentinel, but I believe it is possible.)
- 36. Based on my nearly two decades of experience at the FBI, I believe that the "Serial 445" reference indicates one of three things: (1) that the author of the "2470" FD-302 guessed about the Serial Number that would be assigned to the "2456" form, (2) that there is another FD-302 of an interview of Mr. Gates on March 18, 2018, but which has not been made public yet (even in redacted form) pursuant to the FOIA requests submitted by media organizations, or (3) that the "2456" form was drafted to replace an earlier version of an FD-302 memorialization of the March 18, 2018 interview of Mr. Gates that was either moved to a different case file or potentially deleted from Sentinel.
- 37. Regardless, the reference to "Serial 445" is another indication that the "2470" memo form does not document any interview, but instead documents an investigative activity that occurred on April 17, 2018 regarding the March 18, 2018 interview of Mr. Gates.

Unusual Aspects of the "2456" Memo Not in Accordance with FBI Procedure

38. I believe it is important to address what I believe to be several highly unusual aspects of the "2456" memo that were not in accordance with FBI procedure. In particular, I find to be of concern the following: (1) that Mr. Gates' attorney was not mentioned in the preamble of the "2456" memo, (2) that only three emails are discussed as having been shown to Mr. Gates, even though the Gates Declaration suggests that he was shown many more exhibits, and (3) the bracketed paragraph regarding Ms. Ahmad's purported arrival and departure is something I do not recall having seen in nearly 20 years in the FBI.

Mr. Gates' Attorney Not Listed in Preamble

39. As an initial matter, Mr. Gates' attorney Thomas Green, submitted his own signed statement in this litigation, in which his written testimony was that he was also present, and Ms. Ahmad did not dispute that Mr. Gates' attorney was present with him on Sunday,

- March 18, 2018. In the preamble of the "2456" memo, however, there was no mention of Mr. Green's participation.
- 40. While Mr. Green not being named in the preamble of the "2456" memo could have been an oversight, there are layers of protection to prevent against an accidental omission, including the FBI personnel in the "by" block at the bottom of the FD-302 form and the relevant supervisor needing to formally approve the veracity of the document before entering it into Sentinel.

How Emails Shown to Mr. Gates were Discussed

- 41. In terms of the content of the "2456" memo, the body's narrative discusses three emails being shown to Mr. Gates. Although the discussion regarding Mr. Gates' responses to those three emails seems to be documented in accordance with standard procedure, the Gates Declaration suggests that he was shown dozens of exhibits in total, between emails and screenshots of WhatsApp messages.
- 42. Standard procedure would require that all such exhibits shown to Mr. Gates be not only included in the notes attached to the FD-302 form, but also identified in the body of the "interview 302" itself in a manner that, on request, they could be produced (this is particularly important when a large volume of material makes copying difficult). And yet, the body of the "2456" memo mentions just three total emails, and no screenshots of WhatsApp messages, as having been shown to Mr. Gates.
- 43. For the sake of comparison, there are two "interview 302s" attached that were released in the March 2020 FOIA response that demonstrate the proper procedure, for Richard Hannah Davis on February 8, 2018 ("Davis 302," which is attached as Exhibit C) and for Thomas "Tad" Devine on July 6, 2018 ("Devine 302," attached as Exhibit D).
- 44. In the Davis 302, this is a partial, but sufficient example of how the body's narrative documented evidence being shown to Mr. Davis: "DAVIS was shown promissory notes from 2005 and 2007 from DMP to DAVIS (Exhibit 2). DAVIS did not recall executing promissory notes and did not know why he would have a promissory note. He does not recall receiving the money or the promissory note."
- 45. In the Devine 302, approximately half of the six-page body was the section called "Documents." The section begins, "Devine was shown the following documents:," and it is followed by a list of 22 items, which included a detailed description of the exhibit in question and Mr. Devine's reaction and response to each. For example, the first item states: "1. Consulting Agreements between Devine related entities and Paul Manafort. Devine stated these were standard contracts where there would have been schedules attached hereto. Document 009 would have been the contract for the 2010 Ukraine Presidential Campaign." This is in accordance with proper FBI procedure.
- 46. At the end of the Devine 302 is the statement, "A copy of the above-referenced documents and interview notes have been attached for the file." This is intended to help - facilitate the discoverability of the exhibits shown to Mr. Devine during the interview. This is in accordance with proper FBI procedure.

- 47. In the "2456" memo, however, only three emails are discussed, which is inconsistent at least with what was stated in the Gates Declaration. Further, there was no exhibit number assigned to any of those three emails, and there is no note in the body regarding these emails (or any other materials) being attached to the FD-302 form. Regardless, given the layers of approval needed to enter an FD-302 form into Sentinel (as described above), it is my professional opinion that the entire collection of exhibits shown to Mr. Gates on March 18, 2018 should be attached to the "2456" memo in Sentinel.

Highly Unusual Nature of Bracketed Paragraph

- 48. The most concerning aspect of the "2456" memo, though, is the highly unusual nature of the bracketed paragraph stating that there would be a "separate" FD-302 form documenting what it noted was an 87-minute interview-within-an-interview conducted by Ms. Ahmad and a Supervisory Special Agent (whose name is redacted), which is the second paragraph of page 4 of the "2456" memo.
- 49. In FD-302 forms used to memorialize interviews, FBI agents have significant latitude regarding the style and level of detail contained in the body of the document. Broadly speaking, however, FD-302 forms for interviews are intended to be concise summaries of a given interview.
- 50. Many FBI agents will organize the narrative of the interview in an FD-302 form by categorizing according to the subjects discussed, as opposed to a chronological recording of the interview. The author of the 5-page "2456" FD-302 form, for example, appears to have followed a subject-based structure, as opposed to a chronological ordering of the interview.
- 51. Thus, based on my experience, the bracketed paragraph on page 4 of the "2456" form regarding Ms. Ahmad's arrival and departure does not seem to fit within the format and structure of the narrative utilized by the authoring agent.
- 52. In "interview 302s" that are structured chronologically, I have on occasion seen comments inserted somewhere within the body of the narrative regarding things such as breaks or certain participants arriving or leaving.
- 53. For "interview 302s" following a subject-based structure, I do not recall ever seeing in nearly two decades at the FBI a bracketed comment somewhere within the body of the narrative stating the time of arrival and departure of a certain prosecutor or FBI agent mid-interview. The standard procedure in a subject-based structure is that such information regarding someone's partial participation would be noted in the preamble or at the end of the body of the narrative.

54. In my nearly two decades at the FBI, I do not recall ever seeing another FD-302 form that contained a similar bracketed paragraph inserted into the body's narrative in this fashion, nor do I recall ever seeing an FD-302 that explicitly stated that an interview-within-aninterview was conducted and that it would be "documented in a separate 302." I do not believe it would be appropriate to speculate why or how this paragraph appeared, but I do believe that any experienced FBI agent or federal prosecutor would be concerned about these irregularities in the "2456" memo. It is my professional opinion that further inquiry would be necessary to determine its accuracy.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

| SAMUEL HARVEY CLOVIS JR., date of birth (DOB) was interviewed on 10/03/2017 at his place of employment, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 1400 Jefferson Drive, Washington, DC. After being advised of the identity of interviewing Agents and the nature of the interview, CLOVIS provided the following information:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| About one quarter of the way through the interview, CLOVIS was advised that lying to the agents could constitute a federal offense. He did not indicate wanting to change any of his previous statements at that time.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |

| CLOVIS started off the interview by explaining that he hates Russia and that should be clear throughout his interview. CLOVIS was an Air Force fighter pilot and worked at the Pentagon during the period 1984 to 1988. CLOVIS described himself as a Sovietologist, acting as a think tank for the chief of staff. CLOVIS was an expert on Russia and Eastern Europe with additional expertise in the Middle East. CLOVIS was essentially a wargame specialist on a red team.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| CLOVIS was picked up for the campaign because of his broad policy background. In addition to his military time, CLOVIS had run for office in Iowa where he found out he was good at campaigning but not at fundraising. The TRUMP campaign recruited him heavily. CLOVIS had met TRUMP during the late summer of 2014 while CLOVIS was running for state treasurer. CLOVIS was fundraising for STEVE KING, CLOVIS' congressman in Iowa, when TRUMP was a keynote speaker. TRUMP pulled CLOVIS off to the side and spoke with him at that event. Then, in spring of 2015, CLOVIS was asked to introduce TRUMP for a Lincoln dinner at Council Bluffs. TRUMP liked it and CLOVIS narrated a town hall for him shortly after that. |  |
| CLOVIS got a call from TRUMP's people asking CLOVIS to be on the campaign if TRUMP ran for president. CLOVIS was helping a friend with a different campaign at the time. So he declined and was asked to consider the TRUMP                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |  |

| CLOVIS was asked who took over handling the foreign policy team and replied that he didn't know who took it over. CLOVIS explained that  and J.D. GORDON tried to keep the group together. CARTER PAGE and GEORGE PAPADOPOULOS were not involved with the campaign team. They were not players in the campaign.  PAGE wasn't even at the March 31, 2016 meeting. CLOVIS thought was cultivating that group. MICHAEL FLYNN, KEITH KELLOGG and went to work in the New York office. On occasion JARED KUSHNER would send things to CLOVIS as well.  and RICK DEARBORN handled policy. | b6b7b3   |

03/22/2018 Date of entry RICHARD HANNAH DAVIS (DAVIS) was interviewed at the Office of Special Counsel, Washington, DC on Febraury 8, 2018. Present for the duration of the interview were FBI Special Agent Forensic Accountant b6 ь7С and Special Counsel Attorneys Kyle Freeny and Greg Andres. Also present was DAVIS's attorneys law firm Petrillo, Klin & Boxer LLP. After being advised of the identities of the interviewing parties and the nature of the interview, DAVIS provided the following information: DAVIS was advised his participation in the interview was voluntary. DAVIS was also advised he needed to be truthful in his answers and lying to a federal agent could constitute a federal crime. DAVIS acknowledged his rights and obligations. Background After being involved in campaigns in Alabama and Mississippi, he got more involved in politics and came to Washington, DC. He became involved with the College Republican National Committee during 1980 when Reagan was nominated. He worked with LEE ATWATER organizing small campaigns for b6 b7C Reagan. He ended up working as White House staff. DAVIS worked for the Department of Health and Human Services in a role as White House Liaison and was involved in speech writing. When he left the administration, he worked with and PAUL MANAFORT (MANAFORT) as consultants managing a senate campaign in Virginia. During the Reagan administration, DAVIS worked in the Department of Interior as well as the Commerce Department. DAVIS worked for Thomas Barrack (BARRACK) where he was introduced to MANAFORT. He worked for ATWATER again during Reagan's 1984 reelection campaign. Afterwards, he did domestic policy work for Reagan. In 1987, he left and joined BLACK, MANAFORT, STONE AND KELLY. This was DAVIS's first time working with MANAFORT, but he had known him previously. He started as an associate in the firm and then was promoted to junior partner. The firm was bi-partisan. In the early 1990s, BLACK, MANAFORT, STONE AND KELLY was Washington, District Of Columbia, United States (In Person) 02/08/2018 at Investigation on

| Senior Special Counsel Attorney Greg Andres presented Gates with a copy of the original proffer agreement and was initialed and dated by Andres, Gates, and Gates' attorney  Andrew Weissmann then advised Gates of the terms and conditions regarding providing information to the government under the signed proffer agreement. Weissmann advised that under the terms of the agreement Gates has agreed to provide information to the government, and to respond to questions truthfully and completely. Weissmann advised that only being 90 percent truthful would violate the terms of the agreement and that it was only in Gates' interest to be 100 percent truthful. Weissmann advised that should the government and Gates not proceed with a cooperation agreement and be prosecuted, under the terms of the proffer agreement no statement made by Gates during the meeting could be used against him in the government's case-in-chief at trial except the government may use any statement made or information provided by Gates in a prosecution for false statements, perjury, or obstruction of justice, premised on statements or actions during the meeting. Moreover, the government may also use any such statement or information at sentencing in support of an argument that Gates failed to provide truthful or complete information during the meeting. The government may make derivative use of any statements made or other information provided by Gates during the meeting. Gates advised that he understood the terms and agreed to the terms. | ь6ь70 |

| In January 2018, Manafort told Gates that Oleg Deripaska sued Manafort and Gates in New York state court in an effort to demonstrate that he was willing to help the government's investigation by being a witness against them in exchange for being granted a visa. Gates believed that this was                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |           |

| RICHARD GATES III (GATES) was proffered at the Office of the Special Counsel, Washington, D.C. Present for the proffer were FBI Special Agent DOJ Senior Financial Investigator , and Special Counsel Attorney Andrew Weissmann. Also present was GATES' attorney Tom Green with the law firm Sidley Austin LLP. After being advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and the nature of the proffer, GATES provided the following information:                                                                                                                        | ъ6ъ7С |           |
| GATES initially discussed the hiccup of signing the plea agreement over the past few days. GATES explained the prior five days have been very difficult for him and his family. He spoke at length to about the ramifications of pleading guilty to the charged offenses.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |           | b6b7С |
| Over the past several days, GATES spoke to a number of other individuals about whether to sign the plea agreement. He first spoke to who GATES considered a mentor. GATES asked for advice about what to do.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | ь6ь7С |           |
| GATES also spoke to PAUL MANAFORT (MANAFORT) three times. He spoke to MANAFORT on the phone. On Tuesday February 20, 2018, GATES told MANAFORT he was not going forward with the plea agreement. They also spoke about getting their lawyers together to talk; however, their lawyers never spoke to each other. GATES also asked MANAFORT about tapping into the Legal Defense Fund resources to help pay for some of his mounting legal expenses. MANAFORT told him to apply for the funding.                                                                                |           |           |
| GATES also had two calls with MANAFORT on Wednesday February 21, 2018, both concerning the Legal Defense Fund. GATES told MANAFORT the Legal Defense Fund would receive his application by the end of the week. GATES was hopeful to get money from the fund before signing the plea agreement. To date, GATES had not submitted the application. GATES also contended there was nothing said between he and MANAFORT about GATES not cooperating with the Special Counsel because GATES could not afford it. MANAFORT did not know GATES intended to sign the plea agreement. |           |           |

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

| "Meeting with Congressman Dana Rohrabacher (Chairman, House Subcommittee on Europe, Eurasia and Emerging Threats).  The meeting with Cong Rohrabacher went well. He and I are building a plan to create a framework to promote positive interactions between the Govt of Ukraine and Rohrabachers' [sic] Subcommittee.  Cong Rohrabacher is open minded on Ukraine. He is prepared to visit Ukr to gain more understanding. He is opposed to sanctions and said he would not let the Subcommittee on Eurasia entertain any proposed degislation regarding sanctions for Ukraine."  Gates was asked why he previously said the meeting between Manafort, and Rohrabacher in March 2013 did not relate to Ukraine.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                             |                                                    |                                                                             | Date of entry                       | 03/22/2018         |

| Gates stated that he hadn't previously read the 6/19/2017 Washington Post article, which contained a statement from Konstantin Kilimnik regarding a meeting held in New York on 8/2/2016. Gates stated that following the 8/2/2016 meeting (which was held at New York's Havana Club), Gates spoke to Paul Manafort regarding a subsequent Politico story about it. The author of the Politico article, Kenneth Vogel, had emailed a list of questions to Manafort. Manafort forwarded these questions to Gates, who canswered "no" to all the questions. Gates admitted that he lied to Vogel with these responses. He had been assured no one would find out about this meeting. Gates stated that Jared Kushner became angry following the Politico article, unsure as to why Manafort would have such a meeting. |        |
| While Gates claims he can't recall many conversations with Manafort regarding the 8/2/2016 meeting, he did recall that Manafort asked him if                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |        |

| Gates noted that the 6/19/2017 Washington Post article quoted Kilimnik that he and Manafort spoke merely about unpaid bills, a general update on the political situation in Ukraine, and general news. Kilimnik insisted                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |        |

| The first time Gates traveled to Russia was in late 2007 or early 2008. Gates traveled from the U.S. to Moscow and stayed there for approximately two days. At Paul Manafort's direction, Gates traveled to meet and B-Invest employees in Moscow regarding the Pericles investment. This meeting was scheduled soon after Oleg Deripaska and Manafort decided to create and fund Pericles was responsible for organizing logistics related to Gates' meeting with B-Invest. However, did not attend the meeting. Manafort purposefully excluded from the meeting because was not aware of the amount of money which was invested in the Pericles, and Manafort wanted a wall between his political work portfolio and his financial work portfolio. | b6b7 Ab7C |
| Gates met with the following B invest employees at their Moscow office:  The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the Pericles investment strategy. The following investment sectors were considered: (1) telecom; (2) real estate - focus on Odessa; (3) pharmaceuticals; (4) agriculture; and (5) media companies.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                          |
| Approximately two to three month later, a second meeting was held in Moscow which Gates attended. Gates speculated that he traveled from Ukraine to Moscow for this meeting. The purpose of this meeting was to finalize their investment strategy, pick the top five investment targets and agree on funding for Pericles. The same people from B Invest who attended the first meeting attended this meeting. Gates did not meet                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | ь6ь7ь7           |

| (U) On 04/17/2018 Special Agents and Assistant Special Counsels Greg Andres and Aaron Zelinksy interviewed RICHARD GATES (GATES) at the Special Counsel's Office. After being advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and the nature of the interview, GATES provided the following information:                                                                                   | beb7       |
| (U) GATES was shown a photograph of Theodore Malloch. GATES did not believe he knew the person or had met the person in the DONALD J. TRUMP (TRUMP) campaign or at TRUMP campaign headquarters. GATES recognized the person in the photograph from recent appearances in the news.                                                                                                           |                |
| (U) GATES recalled BOB MCLAUGHLIN (ph), a tall Congressman from the State of Georgia. GATES' recollection involved JEROME CORSI (CORSI). GATES  They met related to CPAC and MCLAUGHLIN was on a subcommittee of CPAC which GATES said he could find by looking at open sources related to CORSI.  They had no discussions related to the hack of DNC emails or Wikileaks.                   | b€b7       |
| (U) GATES was sure there was an opposition document related to TRUMP but did not recall any specifics. He did not recall anyone, talking about an opposition document. GATES did not think it was a single codified document, but more a collection of opposition research. The discussions would have been about TRUMP needing to worry about this cr that as opposed to an exact document. | b6b7b7 |
| (U) They heard lots of things about DNC opposition research, but again not a document. It was information held by specific people like                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | b6b7       |
| (U) The TRUMP campaign did not receive a lot of assistance from the RNC until TRUMP became the nominee. Before then, they experienced opposition from both the left and the right.                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                |

| Throughout the spring of 2016, the Trump campaign sought surrogates to speak on its behalf on various topics. By mid-April 2016 principal among these were Jeff Sessions, Larry Kudlow, Rudolph Giuliani, and Mike Flynn. Gates described Flynn as the "chief surrogate" of Trump who traveled with the candidate often, including to several rallies in the South.                                                                                   |           |
| Gates could not recall anything about a 6/30/2016 meeting between Paul Manafort and Flynn in New York. Gates first met Flynn in person on the campaign plane. Gates had previously emailed and telephoned Flynn and regarding campaign logistics.                                                                                                                                                                                                     | ь6ь7с |
| Gates could not recall a specific telephone call with Flynn on 6/23/2016. Gates was shown an email dated 6/23/2018 between Flynn and arranging a telephone call. Gates opined the call may have taken place to coordinate logistics. Gates recalled that Flynn had discussed contacting consultants on matters such as opposition research, and sought to identify additional surrogates. He was unsure whether Flynn discussed social media matters. | ъ6ъ7С |

Upon being shown a one page document titled "The MediaMeter," a business proposal on social media, Gates stated he "vaguely" recalled the document, but added that everyone was trying to bring their own contacts and proposals to the campaign. Gates stated that Brad Parscales handled the bulk of social media work for the campaign. Gates stated he did not recall meeting with a company at the request of Flynn.

Gates was present on the campaign plane when Flynn spoke to Trump regarding his views on the weakness of the U.S. intelligence agencies. Gates believed Flynn was personally bitter for having been fired from his

| (U) On 08/30/2018 Special Agents (SA)  interviewed DAVID N. KLEIN (KLEIN) at the French Press Coffee Roasters Uptown at 95 E Kennedy Blvd, Lakewood, NJ 08701. The interview was establish via a telephone call to During the phone cal KLEIN stated he was willing to talk with the FBI, had concerns about speaking to the FBI without an attorney present, but he could not afford an attorney. KLEIN stated he would meet with the SAs but reserved the right to not answer any questions or could stop the interview to consult with an attorney. In person and prior to the interview, SA reiterated to KLEIN the interview was entirely voluntary and KLEIN could stop the interview at any time. After being advised of the identities of the interviewing SAs and the purpose of the interview, KLEIN provided the following information: | ь6ь7с |            |
| (U) During the 2016 Presidential Election, DONALD J. TRUMP (TRUMP) had a lot of support from people in Lakewood, NJ. KLEIN is from Los Angeles, C and had a with JASON GREENBLATT (GREENBLATT), TRUMP's one-time attorney. KLEIN reached out to GREENBLATT offering assistance to the TRUMP CAMPAIGN, but GREENBLATT nev followed up with KLEIN.  (U) KLEIN felt he could represent the people of Lakewood's interests to                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | b6b7c | b 6 |
| (U) KLEIN recalled that before and during the run-up to the 2016 election there was interest in improving relations between Russia and the United States (U.S.) unlike today. KLEIN felt it made sense to have a friendly relationship with Russia. KLEIN recalled SECRETARY HILLARY CLINTON's "reset" with Russia.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Jon   | b7C        |
| (U) KLEIN is Orthodox Jewish and thought he could reach out to assist in improving U.SRussian relations through that community. KLEIN searched online and found RABBI BEREL LAZAR (LAZAR), the Chief Rabbi of Russia. KLEIN found LAZAR's email address online and contacted LAZAR. LAZAR's office reached out to KLEIN that LAZAR was planning a trip to the U.S.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |           |            |

| COREY LEWANDOWSKI, date of birth  Account Number (SSAN)  was interviewed on November 8, 2017 at the Federal Bureau of Investigation - Special Counsel's office, 395 E  Street SW, Washington, D.C. Present during the interview were  LEWANDOWSKI's Attorney  FBI Special Agent (SA)  SA  Special Counsel Attorney JEANNIE RHEE, Special  Counsel Attorney AARON ZELINSKY, and Special Counsel Attorney ANDREW  GOLDSTEIN.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | ь6ь7С |
| Prior to the interview, LEWANDOWSKI and his attorney were provided with the attached show documents to review for approximately two hours at the interview location. They were allowed to review the documents at the FBI office but did not receive a copy of the documents. At the beginning of the interview, LEWANDOWSKI signed the attached agreement and was informed that making intentional false statements to the SAs could result in federal charges. LEWANDOWSKI then provided the following information:  LEWANDOWSKI initially became involved in the DONALD J. TRUMP (TRUMP) presidential campaign when he was the National Director for Voter Registration in Manchester, NH. In April 2014, he was involved in an event for 2016 presidential candidates and DAVID BOSSIE of CITIZENS UNITED asked LEWANDOWSKI about joining the TRUMP campaign.                                                                                        |           |
| LEWANDOWSKI met with TRUMP in January 2015 and then became the Senior Political Advisor working with the TRUMP ORGANIZATION until the official campaign was stood up. Then LEWANDOWSKI became the Campaign Manager for the TRUMP presidential campaign. LEWANDOWSKI was paid approximately base salary with the opportunity for bonuses. The bonuses were for each state if TRUMP won the primaries for Iowa, New Hampshire, or South Carolina. The bonus was if TRUMP placed second in those states. These payments were negotiated with TRUMP prior to the campaign being stood up.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Ь6Ь7С |

| MILLER doesn't recall if GORDON talked to the chairmant the amendment. It was as non-nefarious as it comes since mentality was if you attack one you attack all and it shows the U.S. to defend Ukraine. MILLER didn't think it is platform to lock the president in to making such a signition to defend Ukraine. GORDON talked to DENMAN about lighter and eventually the lightened version passed the vote.                                                   | e the NATCnouldn't jmade senseificant co               | ojust falle for theommitment         | met a lot of Russians through her position. MARINELLO has traveled to Russia on a number of occasions for chess-related events. She has never met VLADIMIR PUTIN but understands he is a big fan of chess. MARINELLO added that world chess competitions are very important to Russians in general.

The 2016 WCC consisted of a player from Russia and a player from Norway. The Norwegian won. The dates of the event were November 10, 2016 through November 30, 2016. MARINELLO attended almost every day with the exception of maybe one or two. There were various areas designated for spectators and a special area for VIP personnel. The players competed in a sound-proof cabin in order to minimize distractions from the crowd.

The 2016 WCC was attended by various celebrities and prominent businessmen from New York. Hollywood actor, WOODY HARRELSON, was present for the opening ceremonies. When asked whether or not any Russian government officials were in attendance, MARINELLO stated, "likely, because the event was full of Russians." MARINELLO remembered seeing the Russian Press Officer at the event. When asked if that individual was DMITRY PESKOV, MARINELLO did not recall the name. MARINELLO believed the individual she met may have gone by the name of [phonetic]. Another individual at the event claimed that PUTIN was in Florida on that day. MARINELLO believed that statement to be false however, as she did not see any news coverage of PUTIN being in Florida.

James Rybicki, identifying information having previously been provided, was interviewed via Lync pursuant to documents recovered from former FBI Director James Comey. Rybicki provided the following information:

On Wednesday, July 26, 2017, Comey called the front office telephone number and left a telephone message for Rybicki. On the same day, Rybicki returned Comey's call either from his work desk or cell phone. Comey told Rybicki, while packing for an upcoming move, he found a folder with government documents. Comey agreed to provide the documents the next day when individuals from FBI Finance & Facilities Division (FFD) were returning Comey's personal property.

On Thursday, July 27, 2017, unknown personnel from FFD retrieved one blue "standard" folder from Comey at his residence. The folder contained a one page email, a one page chart with handwritten notes on the back and civil litigation paperwork for Comey. On the same day, FFD, gave the above listed items to Rybicki at his office. Rybicki requested guidance from FBI Acting Director Andrew McCabe later that evening on how to handle the documents. McCabe requested that Comey's civil litigation paperwork go to the FBI's Office of General Counsel (OGC) and the remaining items be provided to FBI's Records Management Division. Rybicki sent the civil litigation paperwork to the Acting Deputy General Counsel at OGC.

On either Thursday, July 27, 2017 or Friday, July 28, 2017, Rybicki spoke with David Bowdich (Associate Deputy Director) regarding the remaining documents. On Friday at approximately 1:17 pm, Rybicki emailed assigned to FFD. On the following Monday, July 31, 2017, retrieved the documents from Rybicki.

Administrative:

The documents retrieved from Comey are being maintained in the custody of the Records Management Division.

| OKNYANSKY was accompanied by his Ukrainian friend, ALEXEI RASIN, who offered STONE damaging information on HILLARY CLINTON. RAISIN formerly worked for Clinton and was allegedly in possession of financial statements                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

OKNYANSKY was accompanied by his Okrainian Irlend, Abbabi Nasin, who offered STONE damaging information on HILLARY CLINTON. RAISIN formerly worked for Clinton and was allegedly in possession of financial statements which demonstrated her involvement in money laundering activities with RASIN's companies. STONE inquired about the amount of financial misappropriations related to CLINTON and asked if it was in the amount of millions. RASIN relayed that it was rather somewhere in the amount of hundreds of thousands. STONE ultimately refuted the offer and stated that he did not believe DONALD TRUMP would pay for opposition research information. The meeting then concluded shortly thereafter.

| Richard GATES, was interviewed at the 395 E Street SW, Washington, D.  C. Also present in the interview were Senior Assistant Special Counsel (SASC) Zainab Ahmad, SASC Andrew Weissmann, ASAC  Gates was interview as part of the terms of his plea agreement. GATES provided the following information:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| GATES joined the Donald J. TRUMP Presidential Campaign in March 2016. The financial health of the campaign was not good at the time because TRUMP was self-funding the expenses. TRUMP made a pledge to his supporters on this point which he wanted to uphold. GATES did not think there were any fundraising opportunities at the time. The campaign had apathy towards not doing anything else and the RNC [Republican National Committee] support was not yet there. Eventually the TRUMP Campaign started to build a fundraising mechanism.                                                                                    |
| [Steven] MNUCHIN joined the campaign and became the finance chair around May of 2016. Other people on the campaign had a problem with the decision to bring MNUCHIN on because he had never raised a fundraising benny in his life. TRUMP realized the magnitude of self-funding a campaign it could not be done. Paul MANAFORT did not have much of a role in the campaign in March or April. MANAFORT became more involved after TRUMP won the primary. MANAFORT and Jared [KUSHNER] spoke often about how much it work it would be to fundraise. After the primary they were able to lean on the RNC to assist with fundraising. |
| There were many fundraising events.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of entry 03/22/2018 RICHARD HANNAH DAVIS (DAVIS) was interviewed at the Office of Special Counsel, Washington, DC on Febraury 8, 2018. Present for the duration of the interview were FBI Special Agent Forensic Accountant and Special Counsel Attorneys Kyle Freeny and Greg Andres. Also present was DAVIS's attorneys of the law firm Petrillo, Klin & Boxer LLP. After being advised of the identities of the interviewing parties and the nature of the interview, DAVIS provided the following information: DAVIS was advised his participation in the interview was voluntary. DAVIS was also advised he needed to be truthful in his answers and lying to a federal agent could constitute a federal crime. DAVIS acknowledged his rights and obligations. Background being involved in campaigns in Alabama and Mississippi, he got more involved in politics and came to Washington, DC. He became involved with the College Republican National Committee during 1980 when Reagan was nominated. He worked with LEE ATWATER organizing small campaigns for Reagan. He ended up working as White House staff. DAVIS worked for the Department of Health and Human Services in a role as White House Liaison and was involved in speech writing. When he left the administration, he worked with and PAUL MANAFORT (MANAFORT) as consultants managing a senate campaign in Virginia. During the Reagan administration, DAVIS worked in the Department of Interior as well as the Commerce Department. DAVIS worked for Thomas Barrack (BARRACK) where he was introduced to MANAFORT. He worked for ATWATER again during Reagan's 1984 reelection campaign. Afterwards, he did domestic policy work for Reagan. In 1987, he left and joined BLACK, MANAFORT, STONE AND KELLY. This was DAVIS's first time working with MANAFORT, but he had known him previously. He started as an associate in the firm and then was promoted to junior partner. The firm was bi-partisan. In the early 1990s, BLACK, MANAFORT, STONE AND KELLY was sold to Burson-Marstellar. He stayed for about four years before he left the firm in the mid-1990s. He set up a new firm, DAVIS, MANAFORT FREEDMAN. ROGER STONE also worked at the new company. This evolved into DAVIS MANAFORT INC. Around the end of the 1990s, DAVIS MANAFORT was really just MANAFORT and DAVIS and they mostly did foreign consulting as there was more money involved in foreign consulting. When needed, they hired contractors. DAVIS wanted the company to stay small. He did not like the atmosphere of large firms and managing people. The firm did some corporate work domestically. Most of this was DAVIS's. There was no paid political campaign work domestically. MANAFORT was not involved with any domestic work, only foreign work.

The firm's foreign footprint went way back to BLACK, MANAFORT, STONE AND KELLY. MANAFORT had done work in Africa and the Philippines in the past. DAVIS did not get involved with foreign work until later. In the late 1980s, DAVIS took his first international trip to Argentina. MANAFORT was working on the presidential campaign there. DAVIS went back occasionally for political work. MANAFORT did most of the foreign work for the firm. ATWATER also had foreign work, but he was in and out of U.S. administrations. STONE also did some foreign work.

DAVIS MANAFORT Entities

DAVIS MANAFORT, INC was DAVIS and MANAFORT's first entity. It was a C Corp. DAVIS MANAFORT PARTNERS, INC. (DMP) was formed later. DAVIS could not recall why they needed the partnership structure. DAVIS was not involved with DMP INTERNATIONAL LLC.

JOHN HANNAH

JOHN HANNAH began buying raw land on the mountain from developers. The entity was used as an investment vehicle particularly for real estate purchases. Initially, it was just Wintergreen properties, but they expanded into flipping properties, buying and selling five or six properties. When they had excess capital from DMP, they put it into JOHN HANNAH and invested it. Sometimes, excess revenue was sent directly to the JOHN HANNAH account.

Trump Tower Purchase

The Trump Tower condo purchase was after they cashed out of Wintergreen. MANAFORT found the condo and bought it without DAVIS seeing it. The condo was used for business. MANAFORT used the condo more often. They used the condo for personal trips as well. MANAFORT handled the real estate transactions. The condo was purchased with income received from DMP.

MCCAIN Campaign

Around 1999 to 2000, DAVIS began his relationship with MCCAIN and joined his presidential campaign. DAVIS took a leave of absence from DAVIS MANAFORT. DAVIS's relationship with MCCAIN has continued through the present. He returned to DAVIS MANAFORT in early 2000 after the primaries and worked there until 2006 when he returned to work for MCCAIN's second presidential campaign. DAVIS remained working with MCCAIN until he lost the election in November 2008. When he was done with the MCCAIN campaign, he met with MANAFORT and they decided to part ways and so began the unwinding DMP.

| After parting with MANAFORT, DAVIS restarted his relationship with Craig Cogut at Pegasus Captial and began working for them as a partner around                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  | the intelligence and data gathering business. There was little investment from the Republican Party in infrastructure, such as data gathering and the computerization of campaigns. MANAFORT and DAVIS invested in data and computerization, and social media. They hired a few people, and the MCCAIN campaign became the company's first client. 3eDC became a vendor for the campaign involved with voter data and internet advertising. The connection to DAVIS got press attention because of DAVIS's position with the campaign as the campaign chairman. As the chairman, DAVIS had an overarching position running the campaign and was more involved with strategy, recruiting, and fundraising. He was not involved in day to day operations.

3eDC was let go when the campaign was ultimately shut down in 2008. When asked if 3eDC was a way to monetize his position on the campaign, DAVIS said yes. It was not unusual for this type of monetizing. DAVIS was not responsible for hiring 3eDC by MCCAIN. He presented the company. There was no comparable firms. It was a revolutionary idea.

3eDC did some work in Virginia for legislative races. In the end 3eDC was not a profitable, and DAVIS ended up losing money on 3eDC.

There was no relationship between 3eDC and JOHN HANNAH; however, JOHN HANNAH could have invested in 3eDC, but DAVIS could not recall.

LOAV Ltd was another one of MANAFORT's entities. DAVIS was not involved with the company. It was used for MANAFORT's side projects. When asked if DAVIS knew if money transferred between LOAV and JOHN HANNAH, DAVIS said it might have since LOAV was MANAFORT"s investment vehicle. There could have been transfers into and out of either JOHN HANNAH or DMP or both companies. Funds were comingled. DAVIS assumed DMP funds were coming from other sources. MANAFORT never shared where money was coming from.

| DAVIS first met MANAFORT around 1977 to 1978 when he was chairman for the College Republic National Committee in Alabama.  he met young republicans, connected with MANAFORT, ATWATER, and STONE through when he went to Memphis on a WHIP for Young Republicans to lobby. STONE was the chairman of the Young Republicans. MANAFORT was running phone banks. In 1981 or 1982, he got closer to MANAFORT during the Virginia senate rate. | 13                       |

DAVIS was not clear how they divided up payments. He knew coming in. For example, they would send an invoice to or DERIPASKA, and then a wire would come in from overseas to a t in US, and they had to figure out from whom.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

| so he wanted to get a sense of the election. His eople were friends of Kuchma.  AVIS learned about the split dynamic between the east and the west in krainian politics. DAVIS read through surveys and polls and got a sense or what was happening in elections. There was an assumption that ANUKOVYCH would get the job and be KUCHMA's successor. KUCHMA was leaving ffice, but he was coy regarding his support for YANUKOVYCH. At the time, he Ukrainian economy was doing well and the country was more unified. AVIS met with legislators who were members of the Party of Regions. DAVIS' assessment was that it "smelled bad." People wanted change. That was lear from polling data. DAVIS read through surveys and polls and got a sense or what was happening in elections. There was an assumption that ANUKOVYCH would get the job and be KUCHMA's successor. KUCHMA was leaving ffice, but he was coy regarding his support for YANUKOVYCH. At the time, he Ukrainian economy was doing well and the country was more unified. AVIS met with legislators who were members of the Party of Regions. DAVIS' assessment was that it "smelled bad." People wanted change. That was lear from polling data. Everyone was saying YANUKOVYCH was going to win. AVIS didn't think so because people wanted change. DAVIS told hat there was instability and YANUKOVYCH may not win. After DAVIS left Kiev, around the time of the election, there were new polls, and was alarmed by the essults. DAVIS sent to Ukraine to monitor the elections. his was when the Orange Revolution happened. YANUKOVYCH claimed the win, ut the validity of the elections were challenged and the results verturned.  AVIS did not do any more work in Ukraine and never went back to Ukraine. eginning in late 2006, DAVIS started working with MCCAIN more. MANAFORT ot together with and DERIFASKA and was introduced to inat AKHMETOV (AHKMETOV). This was the beginning of DMP's relationship ith AHKMETOV.  AVIS said the work for AHKMETOV was a different kind of work, meaning not olitical consulting work.  AVIS said the work for AHKMETOV funded the Party of Regions DMP got involved in political work for the Party of Regions branching from work one for AHKMETOV. After the Orange Revolution, the Party of Regions was ot really active or doing anything. AHKMETOV and MANAFORT orchestrated a arty of Regions come back. During this time period, DAVIS was doing ontenegro and MCCAIN work, and was not in the Ukraine. | AVIS did not do any more work in Ukraine and never went back to Ukraine.  eginning in late 2006, DAVIS started working with MCCAIN more. MANAFORT  ot together with and DERIPASKA and was introduced to  inat AKHMETOV (AHKMETOV). This was the beginning of DMP's relationship  ith AHKMETOV.  AVIS said the work for AHKMETOV was a different kind of work, meaning not  colitical consulting work.  then asked how DMP got involved in political work for the Party of  egions, DAVIS stated that AHKMETOV funded the Party of Regions. | AVIS did not do any more work in Ukraine and never went back to Ukraine.  eginning in late 2006, DAVIS started working with MCCAIN more. MANAFORT  ot together with and DERIPASKA and was introduced to  inat AKHMETOV (AHKMETOV). This was the beginning of DMP's relationship  ith AHKMETOV.  AVIS said the work for AHKMETOV was a different kind of work, meaning not  colitical consulting work.  then asked how DMP got involved in political work for the Party of  egions, DAVIS stated that AHKMETOV funded the Party of Regions. | When asked about DMP's Moscow office, DAVIS said Black MANAFORT Stone and Kelly had a Moscow office back in 1992, but DMP did not have an office there. DAVIS only went to Moscow to meet with DERIPASKA.  DAVIS tried to put KILIMNIK in Montenegro but ended up not hiring him. He learned KILIMNIK was working for DMP in Ukraine from DAVIS described KILIMNIK as the "IRI guy." KILIMNIK was referred as a potential hire because he spoke Russian and had political experience. DAVIS later learned in the media that KILIMNIK was Army Intelligence. DAVIS did not particularly like KILIMNIK. | ъ6ъ7С  |
| When asked about work in Cyprus, DAVIS stated he did not work there. MANAFORT may have been involved in a campaign when DERIPASKA's lawyer was running for Prime Minister, but DAVIS was not involved. DAVIS did not know the name of DERIPASKA's lawyer. DAVIS never met with the lawyer and never went to Cyprus.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |            |
| DAVIS also did political work in Panama and Argentina in the early 2000s.  Foreign Agent Registration Act (FARA)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |            |
| When asked about lobbying in the US, DAVIS stated he used as a lawyer to look into FARA issues. He did not lobby much. Lobbying was not part of DAVIS's business.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | ь6ь7с  |

| Eurasia 21 was a DMP project. At the time, there was no easy way to know about current events in the news in Eastern Europe. They wanted to set up a web portal for Eastern Europe press reporting, translated to English and put online in order to aggregate news in one place funded the project but ultimately, it shut down. The website was set up by a woman named and a think tank in DC was hired to run the content. DERIPASKA was also involved in Eurasia 21. He knew about the project but did not fund it. The Eurasia Heritage Fund was something different. |

| DAVIS was not aware of loans from DERIPASKA. MANAFORT talked about receiving loan, but DAVIS did not think any of the money coming in was actually a loan. MANAFORT said they were going to treat money as a loan                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | from DERIPASKA, but DAVIS was concerned regarding this. DAVIS understood the purpose of treating the incoming funds as a loan was to shield income; however this was not explicitly said. DAVIS never saw a loan agreement. DAVIS stated DAVIS MANAFORT/DMP made a lot of money from DERIPASKA in the form of income, but they had never received a "loan" from Deripaska before.

DERIPASKA never retained DMP to do lobbying in the US. He was not looking for this service.

When asked if DMP hired Akin Gump, DAVIS did not know of this. When asked if they hired Project Associates, DAVIS stated they were hired for communications and public relations work in Montenegro but not in the US. It was an EU centric campaign.

DAVIS said there never was a Moscow DMP office. When asked why the Moscow office was referenced, DAVIS stated that KILIMNIK worked for DMP, and he was in Moscow.

Memo dated July 1, 2006 from MANAFORT to DERIPASKA regarding "Work Plan and Model" (Exhibit 4)

DAVIS was shown a memo from July 2006 from MANAFORT and DAVIS to DERIPASKA. DAVIS generally recalled the document, but not the specifics. DAVIS commented it looked like a draft because the work was not completed. The document was likely written by MANAFORT. Generally, MANAFORT would write proposals and plans. DAVIS did not know who the "Basel Officials" were. DAVIS met with DERIPASKA directly when met with Basel. MANAFORT may have met with other officials at Basel.

When asked about the reference to Ukraine, DAVIS said Ukraine was the economic driver in the region, but DERIPASKA was not that interested in Ukraine. DERIPASKA was friends with people associated with the Party of Regions such as AKHMETOV and YANUKOVYCH, but DERIPASKA was not actively involved in Ukraine politics. That was AKHMETOVs' turf.

When asked about work in Georgia and "-stan" countries, DAVIS stated that by the time of this memo, DAVIS was done in Georgia. The work in the "stans" did not come to fruition.

When asked why foreign politicians and businessmen were hiring DMP, DAVIS stated that they thought DMP was smarter.

When asked about the reference to the Eurasia Heritage Fund, DAVIS did not know exactly what this was referring to. This was not the Eurasia 21 website. It may have been an NGO or a think tank. DAVIS said it was not a fund or a charitable entity. There were no conversations regarding this type of entity being used for this work.

ended up with the debt, DAVIS said he did not know. DAVIS thought this was irrelevant because he did not believe there was a loan and did not believe they owed any money.

YIAKORA VENTURES

DAVIS had not heard of YIAKORA.

JOHN HANNAH

DAVIS believes JOHN HANNAH was re-incorporated by MANAFORT in Florida after they separated. DAVIS learned this from the indictment.

Memo from MANAFORT to AKHMETOV dated June 2, 2005 with the subject "Re: Major Development in US Government Position on Ukraine Re-Privatization"

DAVIS did not recall MANAFORT contacting the National Security Council (NSC) about the re-privatization issue. MANAFORT did not ever lobby directly for anyone. He had relationships. DAVIS was not sure if MANAFORT had a point of contact on the NSC at the time. It was not unlike MANAFORT to ask someone to ask someone for him. DAVIS did not know specifically who his contacts were because MANAFORT had been out of domestic business for a long time.

When asked about ROHRABACHER, DAVIS said MANAFORT knew ROHRABACHER from the 1980s during freedom fighter days of the Angolan war. DAVIS did not know if MANAFORT and ROHRABACHER maintained their acquaintance.

DAVIS did not know of a relationship between AKHMETOV and Russia.

Devine had a very good professional relationship with Manafort, but never really socialized with him. He described Manafort as was good to/with Devine. Devine's impression of Manafort while in the Ukraine was a positive one. While very demanding, he had an enormous challenge and worked very hard, day and night.

While working in the Ukraine, Devine would see Manafort at breakfast and meetings at Manafort's office in Kiev. They might have also had a few dinners together.

Manafort met regularly with Yanukovych and other POR Officials. Devine knew this from his conversations with Manafort.

Devine described both Manafort and as his peers while in the Ukraine.

Rick Gates:

Rick Gates was Manafort's business guy who and was involved in all the campaigns, but more in a business aspect.

Documents:

Devine was shown the following documents:

- 1. Consulting Agreements between Devine related entities and Paul Manafort. Devine stated these were standard contracts where there would have been schedules attached hereto. Document 009 would have been the contract for the 2010 Ukraine Presidential Campaign.
- 2. Various memos regarding the media campaign in the Ukraine during 2005. Devine could tell from the memo structure that these were memos he authored. For memos written "from" both Devine and Manafort, Devine would author and Manafort would modify. Devine recalled Manafort liked Akhmethov.
- 3. Various Invoices from Devine/Mulvey/Longabaugh to Davis Manafort. Devine stated these were routine invoices that in the end got paid. Manafort never discussed "loans" with Devine. Gates would often tell Devine they (Davis Manafort) were expecting a new "traunche" and would be sending payment to Devine.
